About
AAFT School of Animation

From Storyboards to Screens – We Shape Imagination

At the AAFT School of Animation, students are trained to bring stories to life.

With advanced labs in 2D/3D animation, motion graphics, game environments, and VFX, we nurture artistic storytelling and technical finesse. Our curriculum is aligned with the entertainment and gaming industries, offering students hands-on training in character design, world-building, post-production, and virtual workflows.

This study tour is a powerful leap for those ready to turn their passion for animation and design into global creative careers.

About

Rome University of Fine Arts

Rome's Digital Art Powerhouse

RUFA (Rome University of Fine Arts) is a leading art and design university in Italy, recognized for merging classical art heritage with modern digital expression. Its animation and game design programs are known for their focus on visual storytelling, concept development, interactivity, and immersive media.

Students are mentored by creative directors, animators, and design experts

across workshops, live projects, and critiques.

Whether you dream of building a 3D universe, animating a short film, or designing your first game prototype - RUFA gives you the stage to create globally relevant work in a creatively charged setting.
